Georgia students travel by train to visit Sweet Briar College in Virginia

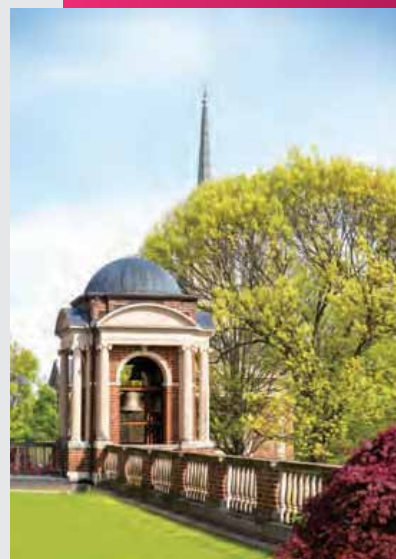

Last year, a group of 19 students and two counselors from Kendrick High School in Columbus, Ga., traveled by Amtrak to visit Sweet Briar College, a small private women's college in Virginia. The experience was an adventure for many of the young women, who had never before been on a train and who were just beginning their college search.

The group arrived at the Lynchburg train station, just a 25-minute drive from Sweet Briar. Sweet Briar Admissions customized the visit to the students' interests. They participated in a mock class where they could ask questions of current students and faculty, ate in the dining hall, toured the College's stunning 3,250-acre campus and met sports coaches and admissions counselors.

After a busy day, the students and counselors returned to Georgia, having learned much, not just about Sweet Briar and the opportunities made possible by a strong liberal arts education, but also about the process of searching for and choosing a college. Sweet Briar College prepares women to excel and lead in the modern world. No longer do Sweet Briar students check off boxes from general education requirements; they participate in an interdisciplinary set of 10 required classes that prepare them to lead and provide the skills of a liberal arts education: critical thinking, problem solving, ethics, communication and curiosity. The College's unique semester calendar gives students the chance to spend three weeks at the beginning and end of each school year taking one intensive course, studying abroad, doing research or participating in an internship. The College's Office of Career Services and nationally recognized alumnae network excel at helping students find internships and careers after graduation.

Add Sweet Briar College to your list of campuses to visit this year! If you are an educational counselor and would like to bring a group of students to visit, please contact the Admissions Office at 800-381-6142 or admissions@sbc.edu.
